TotalEnergies, MPG Manifattura Plastica S.p.A. and Froneri announce the commercial launch of bio-based ice cream plastic cups made from Certified Renewable Polypropylene

Paris, June 16, 2021 – TotalEnergies, MPG Manifattura Plastica S.p.A. and Froneri join forces to develop a sustainable food packaging made from Certified Renewable Polypropylene.

The multinational ice cream manufacturer Froneri - Joint Venture between Nestlé and R&R Ice Cream - has placed an order with MPG Manifattura Plastica S.p.A for 100 million plastic cups made from TotalEnergies Certified Renewable Polypropylene for their iconic brand Coppa del Nonno. This renewable polypropylene produced from bio-based naphtha offers virgin-like performances with a reduced carbon footprint and is fully recyclable. MPG is the first company in Italy to be certified for the production of rigid plastic food packaging from renewable feedstock.

This value chain partnership combines TotalEnergies' technologies and MPG's plastics conversion expertise to meet Froneri's sustainability objectives and contribute to reducing the carbon footprint of food packaging.

"This innovative collaboration with MPG and Froneri supports our goal of reaching a leading position in polymers from renewable feedstock and meets a strong demand from our customers. The development of this new pathway also contributes to our ambition of producing 30% recycled polymers by 2030." said Valérie Goff, Senior Vice President, Polymers at TotalEnergies.

Giampiero Perego, Chairman of MPG, explains: "This is an important innovation, both for our company and for brand owners. It allows to put on the market a product with a reduced environmental impact, saving up to 2.4 kg of CO<sub>2</sub> for each kg of polymer used compared to conventional polymers from fossil feedstock. This partnership proves our ability to integrate sustainability, innovation and quality, and sends a clear message to a food packaging market undergoing profound transformation."

"This important step into a more sustainable packaging route for Coppa del Nonno, the coffee ice cream leading brand in Italy, is an evidence of the growing focus that Froneri is putting behind the topic of sustainability for the company and its consumers" said Giulia Massoli Taddei, Head of Marketing at Froneri Italy. "Especially the younger tier of our consumers is really looking for sustainable packaging while they buy an ice cream and we are going exactly in the direction of being more sustainable using TotalEnergies Certified Renewable Polypropylene for the iconic cups of Coppa del Nonno".

TotalEnergies Certified Renewable Polymers follow ISCC PLUS (International Sustainability & Carbon Certification) scheme that secures the chain of custody and traceability along the value chain from feedstock to final product.
